Specialty Grocer Selects Newport News for New Store Location

NEWPORT NEWS, V.A. (December 10, 2008) – The Fresh Market continues to grow its chain of specialty grocery stores with a new location in Newport News. The store will be situated at 12131 Jefferson Avenue, in the Jefferson Plaza shopping center, and is scheduled to open in the summer of 2009.

“We are excited about our expansion in Virginia in the coming year, with new locations in both Midlothian and Newport News,” said Randy Kelley, senior vice president of real estate and development for The Fresh Market. “We look forward to building on the success of our existing Virginia stores, where we have enjoyed a strong and loyal customer base, and to providing customers in Newport News with the same unique shopping experience.” The company currently operates four stores in the state, in Virginia Beach, Williamsburg, Richmond and Roanoke.

The Fresh Market has built its reputation on being an extraordinary food destination store. “From bountiful produce and high quality meats to convenient prepared foods and an in-store bakery,” said Craig Carlock, chief operating officer for the company, “customers will discover that our stores are committed to variety, freshness and quality as well as superior customer service.”
